HEALTHY CITIES, HEALTHY CITIZENS

FORUM 2022

WILL EXPLORE THE EVOLUTION OF POST-COVID CITIES AS WELL AS A BETTER CONSIDERATION OF GLOBAL HEALTH IN PLANNING.

For Urban Passion is back with the sixth edition of its Forum, focusing this year on the issue of health in our cities - because healthy city policies lead to healthy citizens.

In all cities, the health of the inhabitants is influenced by concentration of activities, social inequalities, mobility patterns, air quality and climate impacts. It is therefore important to act on the determinants of health which can be addressed in an integrated way through planning, public and public and green spaces, housing, mobility, or eco-social inclusion.

THIS EVENT OFFERS PLENARY SESSIONS, WORKSHOPS, TECHNICAL VISITS, WALK SHOPS AND NETWORKING EVENTS.

THREE WORKSHOPS, WHICH WILL TAKE PLACE TWICE, SO THAT EVERYONE CAN PARTICIPATE IN TWO OF THEM.

WORKSHOP 1

Strengthening urban and environmental policies

Moderators: Bruno Clerbaux and Kristel Mazy, administrator
For Urban Passion

Urban planning and health. What strategy should be pursued to make the city more serene and healthy? How can the city be greened to improve access to nature for all? How can we act at the neighbourhood level to strengthen the supply of well-being? What integrated management should be promoted?

Françoise Berthet, Director of Development and Urban Planning, and Margot Belair, Deputy Mayor in charge of Urban Planning - City of Grenoble

Exposure to different environmental factors. What types of housing and public spaces should be promoted?

What can be done to develop new common areas and shared spaces? And promote participatory projects, particularly in the field of mobility linked to health?

Pablo Georgieff, co-founder COLOCO, architect dplg, Paris & Bas De Geus, BSI and UCL

Discussant : Michèle Lejeune, Charleroi Réseau Ville-santé

WORKSHOP 2

Territorialising positive health, multi-level intervention

Moderators: Renaud Daele and Jeremy Dagnies, directors of
For Urban Passion

Strengthening the effectiveness of public policies. What is the best way to cooperate between different levels of government? Why territorialise health and welfare policies? What is the best way to involve the population to raise their expectations. (bottom-up)?

Ri De Ridder, author of «Au chevet de nos soins de santé». Advisor to Federal Minister Frank Vandenbroucke

Providing services to the territories, improving neighbourhoods. What services and facilities should be promoted in the context of positive health? How can we take care of environmental factors in the redevelopment of territories for greater well-being? What methods should be used at local level to develop prevention and health promotion?

Simon Davies, Vice-president of the AIA Paris-Nantes Foundation, and co-author of the book «Bien vivre la ville, vers un urbanisme favorable à la santé

Discussant: Thérèse Van Durme, Be.Hive Coordinator, UCL

Life paths and socio-economic inequalities

Moderators: Benoît Périlleux and Clotilde Fally, administrators
For Urban Passion

The tsunami of the ageing urban population. Beyond this observation, how can we act? Can we give up (as in the Netherlands or Denmark) on building nursing homes? What other responses are there to meet the need for security and the fear of isolation? Risks related to co-morbidities. What initiatives should be taken to promote «self-care»?

Jean Hermesse, former Secretary General of the Mutualités chrétiennes, public health expert, facilitator of citizen initiatives

Inequalities, factors of aggravation of risks. What can be done about the breakdowns in equality (homelessness or people off the radar)? Can we stimulate « warm solidarity » mechanisms? What tools should be developed to reduce the obstacles to overall health and particularly to promote mental health?

Michel Roland, Professor Emeritus of Public Health, ULB, former President of Médecins du Monde

Discussant: Eric Corijn, cultural philosopher, and sociologist

TO INITIATE DEBATE, A KEY CONFERENCE IS OFFERED THE WEEK BEFORE THE FORUM

On 20.09 at 7pm in Liège and online, the key conference by Chris Younès

The interdependence between the human world, the animal world and nature. Which way (and why?) to choose between renaturating the city, cultivating a culture of well-being, and avoiding extensive urbanisation?

Chris Younès has a doctorate in philosophy and teaches at the École nationale supérieure d'architecture de Paris-La Villette. Chris Younès is a Doctor of Philosophy and teaches at the École nationale supérieure de architecture Paris-La Villette. Her work and research develop an interface between architecture and philosophy on the question of the places of living, at the meeting point between ethics and aesthetics, as well as between nature and artefact. C. Younès is Doctor Honoris Causa of the University of Liege.

Introduction by Serge Kempeneers, board member of For Urban Passion.
